Remembrance: Honouring the Past with Ellie the Elephant

Wear your poppy with pride and remember those who served.

- The Armistice was signed on the 11th hour of the 11th day of the 11th month in 1918, marking the end of the First World War.
- We wear poppies as a sign of respect and to show that we remember the bravery of soldiers who gave their lives in conflicts.
- At 11:00 am on Remembrance Sunday, many people across the United Kingdom observe a two-minute silence to reflect and show gratitude.
- The Cenotaph in London is a famous war memorial where the monarch and other leaders gather to lay wreaths each year.
- Remembrance Day is not just about the past; it is a time to hope for peace in the future for everyone around the world.

Did you know? Did you know? The red poppy became a symbol of remembrance because poppies were among the first flowers to grow in the churned-up soil of the battlefields in Flanders after the First World War ended.
