Rosa's Guide to the Human Body in French

1. The arm is 'le bras' and the leg is 'la jambe'. (2 marks)

Working: Referenced word bank: 'le bras' - the arm; 'la jambe' - the leg.

Award 1 mark for each correct translation.

2. Rosa uses her eyes to look at the stars. (2 marks)

Look for: The student must identify the specific action mentioned in the text related to 'yeux'.

Good: She uses them to look at things.

Better: Rosa uses her eyes to look at the stars.

Best: According to the text, Rosa uses her 'yeux' to look at the stars ('pour regarder les étoiles').

What moves an answer up: Moving from a vague answer to a specific one, and finally citing the text for evidence.

3. deux mains (2 marks)

Working: The word bank defines 'la main' as 'the hand'. 'Deux' is the French word for two.

Award 2 marks for 'deux mains'.

4. False. The French word for head is 'la tête', while 'la main' means 'the hand'. (2 marks)

Look for: The student must identify the statement as false and provide the correct translation for 'la main'.

Good: False, that is wrong.

Better: False, 'la main' means the hand, not the head.

Best: False. The text states that 'la tête' is the head, and the word bank shows that 'la main' means the hand.

What moves an answer up: Moving from a simple denial to providing the correct definitions as evidence.

5. pied (1 mark)

Working: The sentence translates to 'I walk with my...', which requires the word for foot.

Award 1 mark for 'pied'.

What a secure answer looks like

A secure answer demonstrates that the pupil can map the French vocabulary to the correct English meaning using the provided word bank as a reference tool.

If your child is stuck

Ask the child to read the French word aloud and then look at the word bank to find the matching English translation. Remind them to check the spelling carefully.

Common mistakes to watch for

Confusing 'la main' (hand) with 'le bras' (arm) or misinterpreting the plural 'les yeux' as a singular noun.
