Finn’s Global Trading Adventure!

Pack your bags and follow the trade routes—let’s discover how the world shares what it grows and makes!

- What is an 'export'? It is when a country sends goods out to sell to other countries.
- What is an 'import'? It is when a country brings in goods from elsewhere to buy.
- Why do we trade? Because no single country has every type of food, material, or resource it needs.
- How do goods travel? Large cargo ships, aeroplanes, and lorries move items across oceans and land.
- What is the cost? Trade involves money—like £—being exchanged for products like fruit, clothes, or technology.

> Did you know? Did you know? Even your favourite breakfast banana might have travelled over 5,000 miles by ship before it reached your local shop! This is part of a global journey called a supply chain.
