Uncovering Our Local History with Ellie the Elephant

Be a Time Detective: Discover the Secrets Hidden in Your Own Backyard!

- Local history helps us understand how our town or village has changed from the past to the present day.
- Historians look for evidence, such as old buildings, statues, or street names, to tell us stories about people who lived here before us.
- A primary source is something created at the time of an event, like a diary entry, a photograph, or a newspaper from long ago.
- Many towns change because of new transport, such as the arrival of the railway or the building of new roads.
- You can visit your local library or archive centre to find census records and maps that show who lived in your house in the past.

Did you know? Did you know? Ellie the Elephant has a wonderful memory for history! She loves visiting local museums to look at old maps. Did you know that the street you walk down every day might have been a muddy track for horses and carts just a hundred years ago? By looking at old photographs and comparing them to today, we can see exactly how our town has grown and changed.

Key vocabulary: Chronology · Evidence · Archive · Landmark · Primary source · Artefact