

Being a Super Star Reporter

Get ready to become a Super Star Reporter! Learn how to write an awesome report and discover the secrets of becoming a top-class journalist.

- A report starts with an introduction that answers the question, 'What is this report about?'
- The body of a report is where you write the main points and facts about the topic.
- A good headline grabs the reader's attention and tells them what the report is about.
- A reporter's job is to find out information and write it down in a report.
- You can conduct an interview with someone to get first-hand information for your report.
- A good report ends with a conclusion that summarises the main points.

Did you know? Did you know that the first newspapers were published over 400 years ago in Germany? They were called 'Relation' and were handwritten to keep people informed about the latest news!

Key vocabulary: Introduction · Body · Conclusion · Headline · Paragraph · Reporter · Interview