

Exploring the World of L.S. Lowry: An Assessment

Learning objective: To demonstrate knowledge of L.S. Lowry's artistic style, his choice of subject matter, and the techniques he used to depict industrial life in Northern England.

Read each question carefully. Use your knowledge of L.S. Lowry to provide clear and thoughtful answers. Remember to use artistic vocabulary where appropriate.

L.S. Lowry was a famous English artist known for painting the industrial towns of Northern England during the 20th century. He is best remembered for his unique style of painting people, often referred to as 'matchstick men', and his muted colour palette of white, red, yellow, black, and Prussian blue. His work captures the busy, bustling lives of workers in factories and streets.
