

Connecting Sentences with Max the Monkey!

Join the parts and build your bridge with conjunctions!

- A conjunction is a special word used to join two parts of a sentence together.
- Coordinating conjunctions include 'and', 'or', and 'but'.
- Subordinating conjunctions include 'because', 'if', 'when', and 'that'.
- You can use 'because' to explain a reason for something happening.
- Max the Monkey always checks if his sentences make sense once they are joined.

Did you know? Did you know? Conjunctions are like super-strong glue for your writing! Without them, sentences would be like tiny, wobbly stepping stones. When we use words like 'because' or 'but', we build a sturdy path for our readers to follow.

Key vocabulary: Conjunction · Clause · Coordinating · Subordinating · Sentence · Join