

Max's Magnificent Maths Market

Learning objective: To identify and use adverbs to describe how actions are performed.

Read the story about Max the monkey and answer the questions below. Remember to look for words that describe how the actions are happening.

Max the monkey stood behind his stall at the jungle market. He was selling colourful fruit and counting his coins very carefully. A customer approached the stall slowly, looking at the shiny apples. Max smiled warmly and greeted the customer with a friendly wave. He picked up a bunch of bananas and placed them neatly into a woven basket. 'That will be £2.50, please,' Max said politely. Suddenly, a gust of wind blew through the trees, making the leaves rustle loudly. Max quickly grabbed his money box so that none of his coins would tumble onto the forest floor. He worked efficiently to finish the sale before the rain started. Even though the weather was changing, Max felt happy. He loved his market stall because he could solve maths puzzles and help his friends all day long. Max counted the coins again to make sure the total was correct. He knew that if he worked hard and organised his stall perfectly, every customer would leave with a smile on their face.
