

Celebrating Black History Month: Honouring Pioneers

Be a history detective! Explore the stories that shaped our world and celebrate the heroes of the past and present.

- Mary Seacole was a brave nurse who set up the 'British Hotel' to care for wounded soldiers during the Crimean War. Her compassion and medical knowledge saved many lives.
- Walter Tull was one of the first Black professional footballers in the UK and later became a commissioned officer in the British Army during the First World War, showing immense courage.
- Claudia Jones was a powerful journalist and activist who founded the first major Black newspaper in Britain, giving a voice to communities and fighting for equality.
- Black history is not just about the past; it is about the ongoing achievements of scientists, authors, artists, and leaders who continue to shape our future today.
- Learning about diverse histories helps us understand our shared humanity and ensures that every story is heard and valued in our classrooms.

Did you know? Did you know? Black History Month was first celebrated in the UK in 1987. It was organised by Akyaaba Addai-Sebo, who wanted to create a time for people to celebrate the often-overlooked achievements of Black people in British history and culture.
