- A compass shows us the directions: North, South, East, and West.
- A map key explains what the symbols on the map mean.
- A scale helps us measure the real distance between two places.
- Grid lines are used to help us find specific places on a map quickly.
- Maps help us plan journeys and learn about the world around us.

Did you know? Did you know? The first maps were drawn on clay tablets and stone thousands of years ago! Today, we use satellites to make maps even more accurate.
