

Pip's Punctuation Party!

Join Pip the Caterpillar and learn how to make your sentences sparkle!

- Every sentence must start with a big, tall capital letter to show it is beginning.
- A full stop is a small dot that sits at the very end of a sentence to say 'all finished!'
- When you ask a question, we use a curly question mark to show we are waiting for an answer.
- Punctuation helps our reading sound like we are talking to a friend.
- Using punctuation makes your writing clear and easy for everyone to understand.

Did you know? Did you know? A full stop is like a tiny red traffic light for your eyes! It tells you to stop reading for a teeny-tiny moment before you start your next sentence.

Key vocabulary: Full stop · Capital letter · Question mark · Sentence · Pause