Rosa the parrot is an expert at learning new languages. Today, she is teaching her friends all about expressing opinions in French. Rosa sits on a branch in the sunny forest and clears her throat. 'To tell someone what you think, you must use the right words!' she squawks cheerfully. 'For things that make me happy, I say J'adore or J'aime. For example, J'adore la pizza and J'aime les chats.' She flutters her colorful wings excitedly. 'But,' she continues, 'if something is not very good, you must be honest. I say Je n'aime pas the cold weather, and I really Je déteste cleaning my feathers in the rain!' Max the monkey listens closely, trying to remember the difference between liking a tasty snack and disliking a rainy day. Rosa explains that using these phrases helps people understand your feelings. Whether it is a fun game or a boring chore, Rosa believes that speaking French is a brilliant way to share your personality with the world. She finishes her lesson with a happy song, reminding everyone that learning a language is always an adventure.
