

¡Mi Cuerpo! (My Body)

Join Rosa the parrot on a colorful journey to discover how to name your body parts in Spanish!

- La cabeza is the Spanish term for the head. Can you spot it at the top of your body?
- Los ojos help you to see, while la boca helps you to speak. Both are found on your face.
- You use your brazos and manos to reach for things, and your piernas and pies to walk to school.
- Notice that 'Los' and 'Las' are used when there is more than one part, such as two eyes (los ojos).
- Remember: Practising your pronunciation out loud makes the new Spanish words stick in your memory!

Did you know? Did you know? In Spanish, nouns have a 'gender'. We use 'el' or 'los' for masculine words (like 'el brazo') and 'la' or 'las' for feminine words (like 'la boca'). Rosa the parrot says this is like sorting words into different colorful nests!

Key vocabulary: La cabeza - The head · Los ojos - The eyes · La nariz - The nose · La boca - The mouth · Los brazos - The arms · Las manos - The hands · Las piernas - The legs · Los pies - The feet
