- L.S. Lowry was a famous artist who loved to paint the busy streets where he lived.
- He used his own special 'matchstick' style to draw the people in his pictures.
- Look at the buildings in his paintings; they are often tall, grey, and very close together.
- Lowry often used simple colours like black, white, red, and yellow to make his scenes stand out.
- You can see patterns in the way he painted rows of houses and groups of people walking by.

Did you know? Did you know? L.S. Lowry liked to paint people who looked a bit like matchsticks! He spent a lot of time walking around busy towns, watching how people moved and how the buildings stood tall against the grey sky.
