

Remembrance Day: A Time to Remember

Wear your poppy with pride and remember those who helped us.

- Remembrance Day happens every year on the 11th of November to show respect to soldiers who kept us safe.
- Many people choose to wear a red poppy on their clothes in the days leading up to the 11th of November.
- At 11 o'clock in the morning, many people stand very still and quiet for two minutes of silence.
- This special time of silence helps us think about the brave people who served in wars to help bring about peace.
- Ellie the elephant remembers that it is important to be kind and think about others who have helped our country.
- We say 'thank you' for the peace we have today by remembering the history of the past.

Did you know? Did you know? The poppy became a symbol of remembrance because these bright red flowers grew in the muddy fields where soldiers fought a long time ago. Today, we wear them to show we care.
