Geography Assessment: How We Trade

Learning objective: To understand how goods are traded around the world and how they reach our shops.

Read each question carefully. Use the word bank to help you with your spelling. Write your answers clearly on the lines provided.

Finn the dolphin loves to watch the big container ships travel across the ocean. These ships carry boxes full of food, clothes, and toys. When a country buys items from another country, it is called an import. When a country sells items to another country, it is called an export. This buying and selling is called trade.
