

Remembrance Day: A Time to Remember

Let us pause, reflect, and show our respect.

- Remembrance Day is held every year on the 11th of November to mark the end of the First World War.
- People wear a red poppy to show they remember the brave people who served in wars.
- At 11 o'clock, many people stand in a two-minute silence to think about those who lost their lives.
- We remember that many different people from many countries helped to bring peace to the world.
- Even today, we use this day to hope for a kinder world where everyone lives in peace.

Did you know? Did you know? The red poppy became a symbol of remembrance because these bright flowers grew in the muddy fields where soldiers fought during the First World War.
