

Celebrate World Book Day with Pip the Bookworm!

Dive into a world of wonder—your next great adventure is waiting between the covers!

- Why is it important to celebrate diverse authors and stories from across the globe?
- How does reading help us empathise with characters who lead lives very different from our own?
- In what ways can a well-crafted narrative influence our perspective on history and culture?
- Why do illustrators play a crucial role in shaping the atmosphere of a story alongside the text?
- How might the invention of the printing press have changed the way humans share knowledge?

Did you know? Did you know? The very first World Book Day was designated by UNESCO in 1995! It is celebrated in over 100 countries globally, serving as a worldwide festival to promote the joy of reading for pleasure and the protection of intellectual property through copyright.
