

Rosa's Grand French Feast

Learning objective: To use accurate French vocabulary for food and drink, and to apply descriptive adjectives to express preferences.

Welcome to Rosa's French bistro! Use the word bank to label the items on your plate and in your glass. Then, complete the written tasks to describe your perfect meal.

Draw: Draw a large, circular plate in the centre of the page. Arrange a balanced, nutritious meal on the plate including a protein, a vegetable, and a piece of fruit. Draw a glass next to the plate. Use a clean, illustrative style with clear outlines so that labels can be written neatly with arrows pointing to each food item.

Label words: le pain (bread) · le fromage (cheese) · une pomme (an apple) · la salade (salad) · le jus d'orange (orange juice) · le poulet (chicken) · les carottes (carrots) · délicieux (delicious) · j'adore (I love) · je déteste (I hate)

Steps:

1. Label three items on your drawing using the correct French nouns from the word bank.
2. Write a sentence in French expressing what you love to eat and what you dislike. Include an adjective to describe the taste.
3. Explain why it is important to include a variety of food groups in your meal, using the French terms for the food you have drawn.

4. Compare and contrast your meal with a traditional English roast dinner. What differences do you notice in the components?
5. Justify your choice of drink. Why does 'le jus d'orange' complement the meal you have designed?
6. What might happen if you replaced all the solid food in your drawing with 'le chocolat'? Consider the nutritional impact.
