

Rosa's Healthy Body

Learning objective: To identify and name parts of the body in Spanish.

Read the story about Rosa the parrot. Look at the Spanish words for body parts. Answer the questions below using the word bank to help you.

Hola! I am Rosa. I am a very colourful parrot. Today, I want to teach you about the body in Spanish. Everyone has a body, or 'el cuerpo'. Look at my head, which is 'la cabeza'. I have two bright eyes, or 'los ojos', to see the forest. When I fly, I use my wings, but humans use their arms, or 'los brazos'. I have strong legs, 'las piernas', to help me stand on my favourite tree branch. At the very bottom, I have my feet, or 'los pies'. My body is very important because it helps me explore the world. It is fun to learn new words. Can you touch your head and say 'cabeza'? Can you touch your feet and say 'pies'? Practising these words every day will help you remember them. Learning Spanish is a great way to talk to new friends. Let us keep learning together!

Word bank: cabeza - head · ojos - eyes · brazos - arms · piernas - legs · pies - feet · cuerpo - body

1. What is the Spanish word for 'head'? (1 mark)

2. Which two body parts does Rosa mention that humans use to walk and stand? (2 marks)

3. Why does Rosa use her 'ojos'? (2 marks)

4. Why do you think Rosa wants us to touch our body parts while we learn? (2 marks)

5. Which Spanish body part word do you find easiest to remember? Why? (2 marks)

Draw: Draw a picture of a person and label their 'cabeza', 'ojos', 'brazos', 'piernas', and 'pies' using the correct Spanish words.

Extension challenge: Try to say the names of the body parts in Spanish to a partner or a family member at home!