

A Sparkly Guide to Bonfire Night

Wrap up warm and join Leo the Lion for a glowing celebration of history!

- Bonfire Night is celebrated every year on the 5th of November to remember the events of 1605.
- The Gunpowder Plot was a plan to damage the Houses of Parliament in London.
- Many families gather outdoors to watch colourful firework displays light up the night sky.
- Traditional treats eaten on this night include toffee apples and parkin cake.
- Safety is very important; we always stand back from bonfires and handle sparklers with great care.

Did you know? Did you know? The tradition of lighting bonfires on 5th November has been happening for over 400 years! It is a way for people to mark the night in 1605 when the Gunpowder Plot to blow up the Houses of Parliament was discovered and stopped.
