- The River Nile was the lifeblood of Egypt; every year it flooded, leaving behind rich, dark mud called silt which helped farmers grow plenty of food.
- Ancient Egyptians used a clever writing system called hieroglyphics, which used pictures and symbols to represent sounds and words instead of an alphabet.
- A Pharaoh was the ruler of Ancient Egypt and was considered to be both a powerful king and a representative of the gods on Earth.
- The Egyptians were master builders who constructed enormous stone pyramids to act as grand tombs for their Pharaohs to rest in after their lives ended.
- Ancient Egyptians wore linen clothes to keep cool in the hot desert sun and often decorated their jewellery with colorful stones like lapis lazuli.
